Hearing the Need The Deafness Foundation 1974 to 2006

Edited by Ellaine Downie

"Hearing the Need is an account of the momentous changes that have occurred in the lives of Deaf and hearing impaired Australians since the 1950s. It records the achievements of an Australian community organisation whose members volunteered their vision, expertise, commitment and service to issues and projects that have transformed the lives of Deaf and hearing impaired Australians.

The Deafness Foundation's active and successful community fundraising, including its now widely supported Butterfly campaign, has enabled it to raise community awareness of the causes and treatment of deafness and to provide financial encouragement to many projects that assist Deaf and hearing impaired people and their families."

We believe the book will provide a useful reference and have wide appeal.
